A downtown White Plains office building on the market for $2.3 million has sold.

A downtown White Plains office building on the market for $2.3 million has sold.

New York Commercial Realty Group announced Thursday the sale of 180 East Post Road; the company declined to name the purchaser or the sale price citing a confidentiality agreement.

The three-story, 20,000-square-foot building has retail tenants on the ground floor and a law firm on the third, according to the building's listing sheet.
